Facebook India chiefs appear before parliamentary panel debating misuse of social media platforms

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA New Delhi, September 2

AMID A POLITICAL slugfest over the Facebook issue, the company's India head Ajit Mohan on Wednesday appeared before a parliamentary panel, which is discussing alleged misuse of social media platforms.

mation technology on the same issue, while a few others including some digital media activists also deposed before the panel.

An official said 18 members of the panel including the chairman were present. Tharoor's announcement that the panel would like to hear from Facebook about a report published in the Wall Street Journal claiming that the social media platform ignored applying its hate-speech rules to politicians of the BJP in India, had evoked a strong reaction from BJP members of the panel.

BJP MP Nishikant Dubey had alleged that the Congress leader has been using the panel's platform to further his and his party's political agenda and even demanded his removal as chairman.

A fresh round of political slugfest started on the matter on Monday with Congress leader Rahul Gandhi claiming that the international media has "exposed" Facebook and WhatsApp's "brazen assault" on India's democracy and social harmony.

"No one, let alone a foreign company, can be allowed to interfere in our nation's affairs. They must be investigated immediately and when found guilty, punished," Gandhi tweeted.

IT minister Ravi Shankar Prasad also wrote to Mark Zuckerberg on Tuesday, accusing the social media platform's employees of supporting people from a political predisposition that lost successive elections, and "abusing" Prime Minister and senior cabinet ministers.

In a three-page letter to Facebook chief executive Zuckerberg, Prasad alleged "bias and inaction" by individuals in the Facebook India team on complaints by people supportive of right-of-centre ideology.

Chinese competitors to gain in overseas market; incentive cap will impact prices: Bajaj Auto

GEETA NAIR Pune, September 2

TWO AND THREE-WHEELER maker, Bajaj Auto, could lose around ₹20 crore per month with the government imposing cap on incentives under the Merchandise Exports from India Scheme (MEIS) from September 1, 2020.

The benefit has been reduced to ₹2 crore per company instead of the ₹80 crore the company would have got under the scheme, hurting its competitiveness in global markets.

Rakesh Sharma, ED, Bajaj Auto, told FE that while the details were not clear, the cap of ₹2 crore for August to December 2020 was quite meagre. "Two per cent is substantive and the abruptness of the withdrawal further complicates the issue as we are mostly facing off against price driven Chinese competitors overseas," Sharma pointed.

Every percentage counts and this is passed on to the customer and this could translate into a 2.5% increase in prices in the export markets, he said.

The Directorate General of Foreign Trade (DGFT) has estimated that 98% of the exporters' claim of MEIS will be unaffected by the changes. However, this incentive offered Bajaj Auto significant benefits. According to Sharma, Bajaj Auto received ₹230 crore under the MEIS in FY20. The company on an average got ₹20 crore per month from the scheme.

Bajaj Auto is the country's largest automotive exporter with the company exporting 2.17 million units in FY20 across 79 countries. In the first five months of FY21, Bajaj's exports were at 1.70 lakh units out of total sales of 3.56 lakh units.

However, there was good news on the sales performance front with the company witnessing a growth in August 2020 and selling 40% more vehicles than it did in July. Sharma said demand was back and they were preparing for a normal demand during the festival time.

Deepak Fertilisers ties up with agri value chain to help farmers

FE BUREAU Pune, September 2

DEEPAK FERTILISERS AND Petrochemicals Corporation (DFPCL) on Tuesday announced its tie-up with Samunnati, a specialised agri value chain enabler that offers customised financial, co-financial and non-financial solutions to stakeholders to create a positive impact in lives of farmers associated with farmer producer organisations (FPOs).

With this tie-up, DFPCL will offer crop-based advisory to help farmers under FPOs across four states to improve yields, quality and earnings. At the same time, the tie-up will also facilitate access to farm credit at affordable rates — thereby empowering farmers to improve scale and modernise the process.

According to the MoU, FPOs will be able to access crop-based advisory and agri inputs through DFPCL, along with customised finance options through Samunnati.

Commenting on the MoU, DFPCL's crop nutrition business president Mahesh Girdhar said, "DFPCL will guide the FPOs and associated farmers under the Samunnati umbrella for a better yield and with a mission to transform their lives for the better." DFPCL, through its 100% owned subsidiary Smartchem Technologies, is already working with FPOs associated with Samunnati and has appointed some of them as dealers.

"We have been working with ~ 500 FPOs across 19 states to make markets work for small-holder farmers. This partnership will enable FPOs and their farmer members to have access to inputs and capacity building/advisory services, creating better income and livelihood," Anil Kumar SG, founder and CEO of Samunnati, said.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA New Delhi, September 2

BILLIONAIRE MUKESH AMBANI'S twin children Isha and Akash, and edtech startup Byju's founder Byju Raveendran are among the Indians who have debuted on Fortune's '40 Under 40' list of influential people around the globe.

Stating that the coronavirus pandemic has fundamentally altered the way people work and socialise, Fortune magazine said executives have moved quickly to support and empower employees while grappling with daunting challenges to the way their businesses operate.

"To reflect this wave of transformation, we decided that we needed to embrace change in this year's 40 Under 40. We needed to go bigger — and search more

In the technology list, Isha and Akash Ambani feature with Byju Raveendran.

"They say data is the new oil — and when it comes to Reliance Industries, India's largest company, that's literally the case," Fortune said, adding the 47-year-old conglomerate amassed a fortune in petrochemicals before dominating the country's mobile connectivity market with Jio, a low-cost wireless carrier which debuted in 2016.

Reliance is a family business. Akash joined the company in 2014 after receiving an economics degree from Brown University. Isha joined a year later, following stints at Yale, Stanford and McKinsey.
